

ALUSPRAY SPRAY-ON BANDAGE

The image here is of a foal that was injured running through a gate, ripping her side open, tearing through skin and muscle.

The photos show her progress over a few weeks using Aluspray® as a spray-on bandage (the photo above was taken after she was treated by the veterinarian and Aluspray® was applied to the wound).

This photo was taken just after the injury occurred before the animal was treated by the veterinarian.

This was taken after she was seen by a veterinarian. The wound was cleaned, the muscle stitched and excess skin cut off.

After applying Aluspray® onto the cleaned wound.

A few weeks into the healing process after continued use of Aluspray®.
